Red Peters Comedy Music Hour Show New CD Of Listener Submitted Songs Is Uncensored, Uncut And Explicitly Funny

Red Peters, host of the Red Peters Comedy Music Hour Radio Show on Sirius Satellite Radio, is set to release the Best of the Red Peters Comedy Music Hour Vol, 1 CD on Oglio Comedy Records, a Fontana/Universal distributed label. The compilation is the best of outrageous comedy songs (rock, rap and country) that artists and listeners have submitted to his show in it's first year of broadcast. The Red Peters Comedy Music Hour Radio Show airs weekly on Howard Stern's Sirius channel, Howard 101, and is the only national show devoted completely to showcasing uncut and uncensored comedy music.

Red, a comedy song musicologist and producer, has tapped into a blue music world of artists and songwriters fearlessly writing in a medium that is equal parts modern day vaudevillian, behind the counter irreverent and just plain juvenile that has existed on the fringes of the accepted national music consciousness since the beginnings of composed music. Red's own track "I Can't Say These Things", a cool Latin, Jobim influenced composition was one of Howard's theme songs as he clashed with the FCC and became Red's official intro to his own show when the Howard Sirius channels began. The 17 artists featured on the compilation come from all walks of life and each have their own websites and MySpace pages for further listening. Guaranteed to raise the ire of your parents and make you laugh, welcome to world of the Red Peters Comedy Music Hour!
